

We held Tuesday/Thursday meetings again this sprint which was very useful once again. We delegated tasks to everyone and were able to help each other whenever we got stuck on anything.

The only issue we had this sprint was not looking at small things and finalizing them before the demo (ex. Logging in with a nonexistent user should have an error message), even though we had the stuff done. Some things were commented out by other people and never put back in.

Other than that, we finished the 3 user stories we set out to do.